Geysa is a useful information system to manage, evaluate and monitor the actions performed by Valdocco. It also allows adapting one of the Catalyse toolkit tools to Valdocco characteristics and to the setting where it implements its actions.

In the 1980s, the districts located in the North outskirts of the city (Hispanidad and Alcalde Diego Sayago) shown an intense socio-economic frailty and social unrest, what generated the classification of this territory as a priority action area by the Andalusian government. Initially, the Workshop-School Valdocco was created as a social initiative to meet the abandonment and risk faced by children and young people who were outside educational structures, had misfit behaviour and lived in a typical setting of the urban outskirts.
